

Regional Sales for Innovative "Green" Solution

Do you like to sell? Would you like to help the environment? Join us and do both.

Seahorse Power seeks a Sales Director for our Baltimore/Washington DC region. This opportunity is designed for the independent person who understands the region, can sell both to the Baltimore/D.C. landscape and through local distributors. Our product, Big Belly, is the worlds first solar trash compactor and has been featured in Newsweek, Business Week, Time, and the Discover Channel.

Contenders need to have 4+ years of successful sales experience, be a fearless, have a BA+, and be passionate about the environment. You also need to be articulate and a self starter. Experience with waste or municipalities or park services is a plus.

A member of our management team will be visiting DC the end of May to hold face to face meetings with candidates who have been phone screened. If you think that you would like to join us, take a look at our web site (www.seahorsepower.com), then submit your resume to the email below.

All serious inquiries will receive a response within 2 business days.

rgaudette@seahorsepower.com